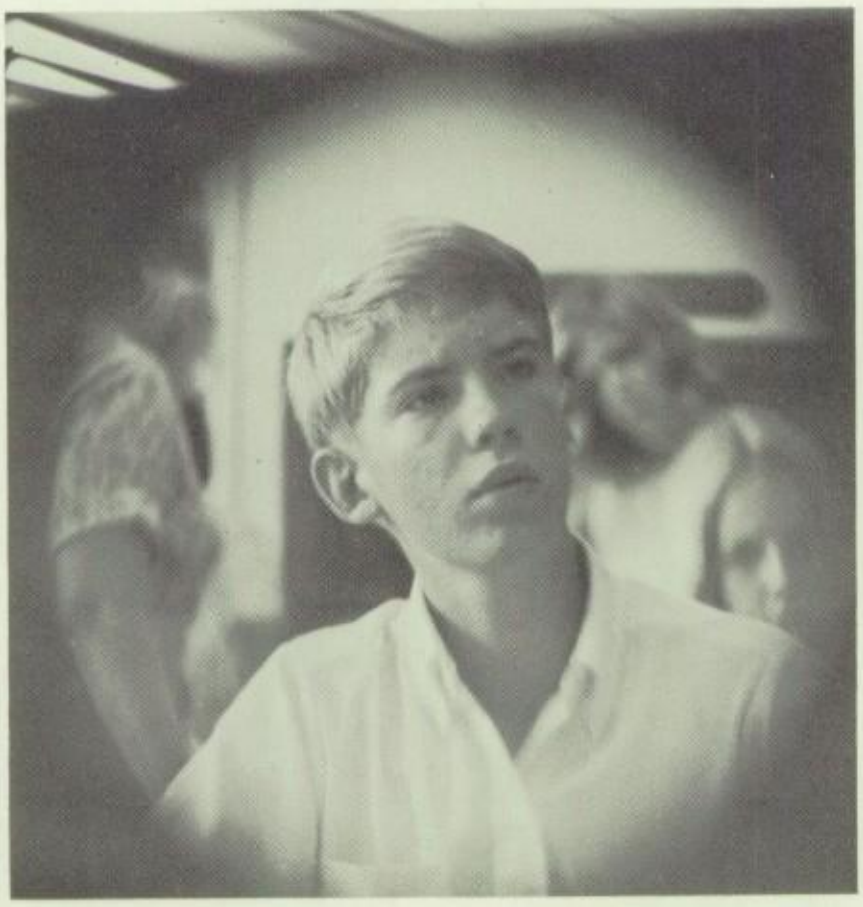
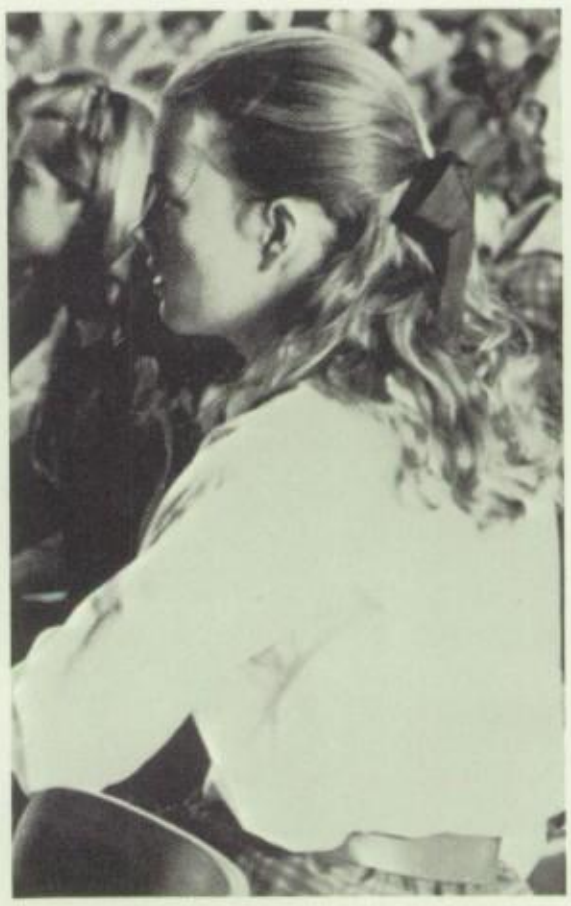
Our dreams,

our hopes,

our horizons

ever surge beyond us,





not always without effort

on our part-- trying,

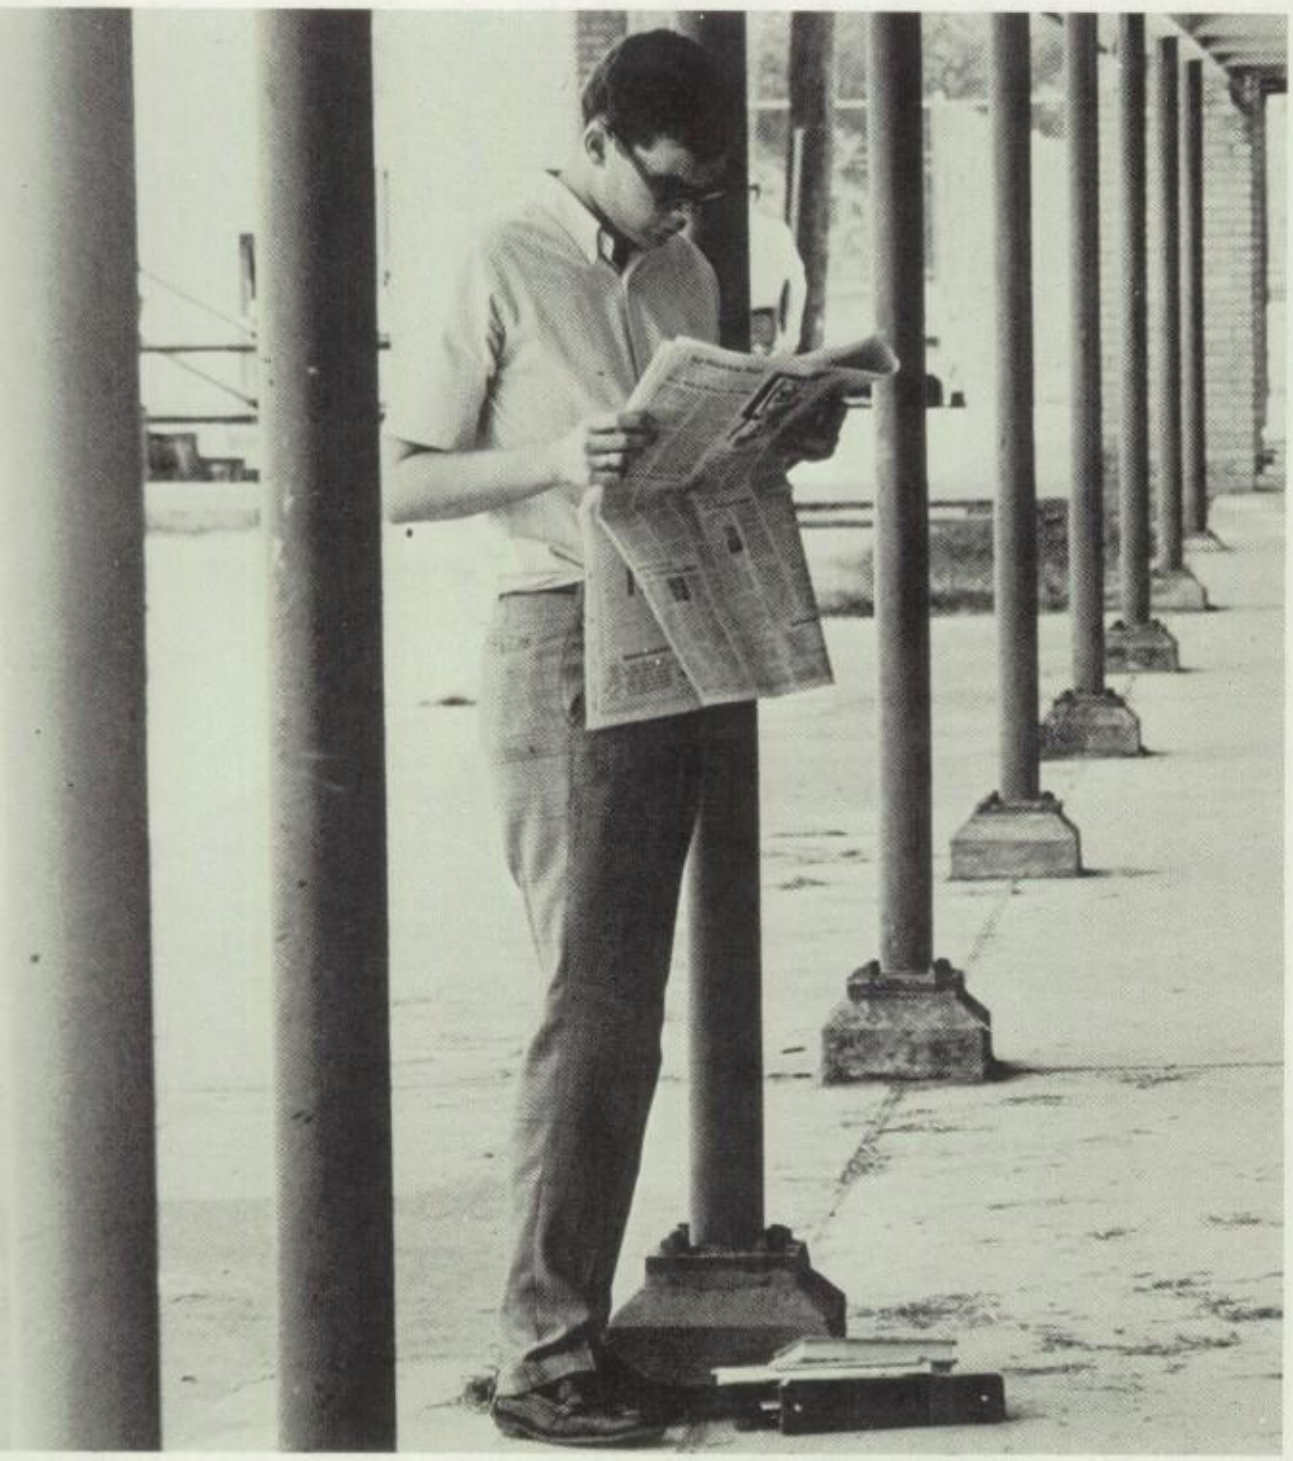
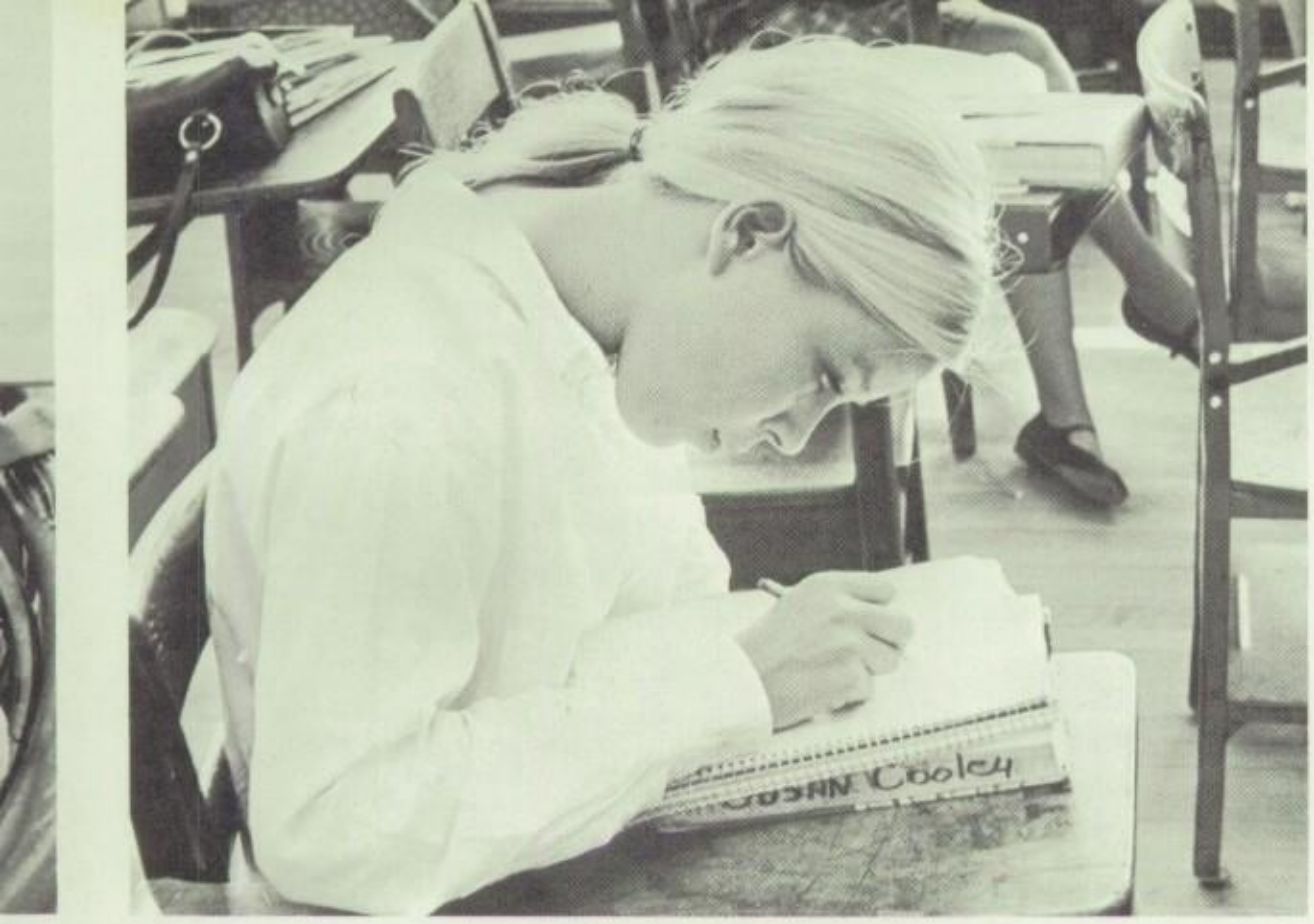
searching,

learning,

thinking . . .





melding the new
into that already tested by our experience.

We accumulate facts, experiences, and associations with aware adults, some inspiring and stimulating, all memorable; with contemporaries in their rich, unique variety; and with friends, who banish some of the barriers of our solitary self.

From the isolation of self,
sometimes haltingly,
sometimes boldly,
we venture forth to seek answers.
We learn to submerge self to the order of things,
to surface self to stand secure and proud in tested beliefs, and to move with confidence toward identifying,

defining,

knowing ourselves.

And from it all, at last,
as we leave Lamar,
each of us moves
in his own way,
at his own pace,
toward his own horizon.

Our life is the parking lot at 8 a.m.
classes and teachers,
assemblies and administrators
games and pep rallies, clubs and service projects,
dances and friends, and study and practice.
It is all these and much more—
a talent discovered,
a hope abandoned,
an idea embraced.
We look back to recall past horizons, to fathom its significance.

Life

Lamar Plunges into the Fall Semester

Summer days were spent in various ways. Some people leisurely wasted time or hit the surf; others filled their hours attending summer school. A few traveled with the Amigos de las Americas to Honduras in order to help inoculate the native villagers, but these activities had to end. After a seemingly short summer, fall months began, months not only of homework, but also of club meetings, athletic games, and elections.

A hearty welcome, an enthusiastic pep rally, and a Cherokee invitation familiarized new sophomores with Lamar High School. Orientation, sponsored by Mirabeau, proved to be beneficial to those who attended. Greeting the newcomers were Mr. Harold Costlow, Mr. Lon Wheeler, and Mrs. Margaret Chaplin. Speeches concerning the different clubs were presented.

Through continuous and imaginative efforts of the cheerleaders, spirit was boosted during the entire football season. Psychedelic lights, new cheers and chants, and inventive skits enhanced each pep rally. Little Red, Dewitt Gayle, served as the traditional living symbol of Lamar spirit.

Cherokee, a club urging all girls to engage in sports, also contributed to forming an enjoyable atmosphere. From arrows penetrating the head to girls dressed like a bird and a badminton racket, the various sport heads displayed unusual originality in their descriptive speeches. This fall's activities assuredly constituted an impressive season.

Sophomores are introduced to the hectic schedule at orientation.

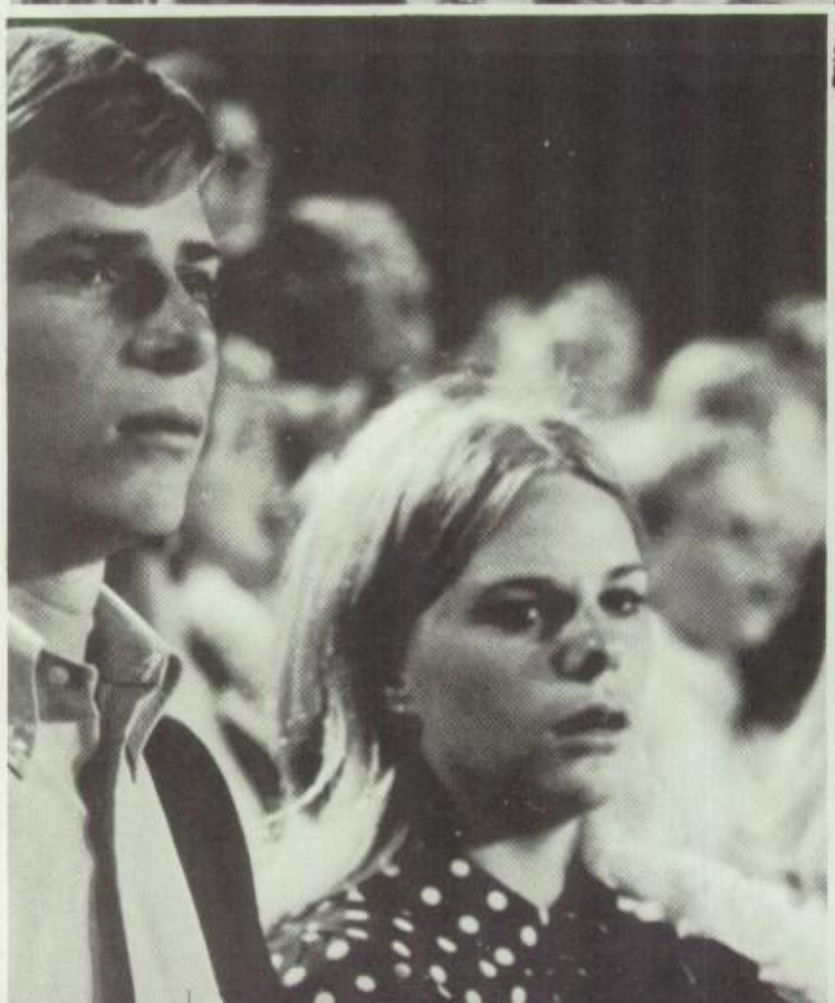
Unaccustomed to the overpowering charm of senior Mike Wheeler, Nancy Eversole blushes with embarrassment at a graduation party.

Symbolizing the love generation of hearts and flowers, Melissa Miller captivates the audience at the opening Cherokee assembly.



Eagerly absorbing knowledge from new books at the Library's Open House are Liz Leonard, Carol Simmonds, Nancy Weaver, Sharon Linehan, Gayle Cartwright, and Sandi Anderson. Actually they are discussing their weekend dates!

Up, up with people, you meet 'um wherever you go." Patriotic tunes, ng by the nationally famous Up With People, fill the auditorium.

Whether provided by a "soul" band, an American singing group, or a dance in the gym, music rang out in the month of October. Trumpets, electric guitars, drums, and Clarence Green blasted "soul" throughout the auditorium. A different pace was set by Up With People, who were invited by the Mixed Chorus. The melodic show even inspired a few listeners to finish high school and then join the group in traveling around the United States. Sadie Hawkins was sponsored by the Choralettes. Girls were forced to invite their favorite beau and treat him to dinner before the dance. Costumes, in accordance with the circus theme, were both wild and creative.

This year, Lamar was fortunate to be invited to participate in the Houston Lighting and Power Prep Bowl. Games were broadcast on local television. After the school contestants won three consecutive games against Yates, St. Pious, and Spring Branch, Lamar retired as a champion.

The Lamar-Lee football game will always be remembered as a special occasion for two reasons: Lee is our biggest rival and the game was Homecoming. Out of five nominees, a queen was chosen and presented roses at half time by Pow Wow, a boy's social club. The pep rally preceding the game was fun for everyone who entered into the excitement and thrills. Even the teachers dressed up in their latest fashions (?) and paraded down the aisles carrying colorful signs. Humorous scenes were dramatized by men teachers posing as shapely females!

The Presidential election was an additional time-consuming activity for energetic students. Many after-school hours and weekends were spent helping at candidates' headquarters, handing out information in shopping centers, and walking from house to house urging people to vote. Although most were not of the voting age, each found a way to support his favorite candidate.

Drama and Mixed Chorus members were certainly busy this fall. Under the direction of Miss Diane McCurley, Our Town was presented to the student body at three excellent performances during the first week of December.

Two drama students, Lili Robertson and Cathy Roden, directed "Charlie Brown's Christmas" at a free assembly before the holidays. The play emphasized the characters instead of the props and scenery. Indeed, this play was well worth seeing.

Night after night, rehearsals for the Mixed Chorus's production of Oliver proved to be beneficial. After renting costumes and sets, the cast barely broke even. The pure enjoyment and education gained by acting out a musical was enough reward for their efforts.

Spread a Little Christmas Cheer

The universal joy of Christmas is certainly wonderful. We ring the bells when princes are born, or toll a mournful dirge when great men pass away, but once in the year, and only once, the whole world stands still to celebrate the birth of a child. Christmas cannot be cut out of the calendar nor out of the heart of the world.

Through the work of Lamar's social clubs, students took the opportunity to share a little of their Christmas with others. Niwauna, Pow Wow, and Wichaka gave less fortunate children from Dow Elementary School a Christmas to remember. Palamar and Ramal gave a party at Crockett Elementary School. Presents were distributed by a jolly Santa Claus, and refreshments were eagerly gobbled by happy faces. Back at Lamar, Mirabeau busily decorated the halls with streamers and mistletoe.

the New Year

Students never seem to mind getting out of school a couple of hours early, especially to see a parade. The Lamar band along with school board members, marching groups from other schools, and the first astronauts to go around the moon promenaded down the streets of Houston to provide a colorful and exciting procession.

Parties never seem to cease, particularly with the coming of the new year. A "Space Odyssey" gathering gave imaginative minds a chance to go wild, and they did. Everything from the devil to martian costumes were worn at that way-out event!

Basketball season was so exciting this year because of the fine Redskin team. The players were a definite threat to the opposing side every time they walked on the court. Tears and hugs from the spectators and crowds going wild told the story of close games and upsets.

You expect us to run for classes in a mob like this? Getting the right class, at the right period, with the right teacher is not always easy according to this scene.

Talent Produces Entertainment and Honors

Whether athlete or scholar, cheerleader or debater, th student carries his school's reputation wherever he goes It is important to remember that members of a studen body reflect their institution of learning. Lamar's wid range of courses and extracurricular activities supply a abundance of opportunities to excel in a particular field

One field of interest to many is debate and drama. Wit combined efforts and time-consuming hours of practice Lamar's squad has brought home several sweepstake trophies. The team enters approximately ten high schoo tournaments and travels out of the city about once a month. Through their continuous winning, this year' squad is rated one of the best in the city and state.

Hootenannies are always different from year to year The talented singers and musicians who had enough courage to perform on the stage sang music ranging from soul to folk. Even a few hillbillies managed to ge in a couple of numbers. The entire affair displayed the versatility of Lamar's talented students.

In the annual Hootenanny in February, Laurie Lander sings a little tune with her microphone in hand.

Spring Fever Attacks Lamar

It's funny what spring fever can do to people. Take our principal, Mr. Harold Costlow, for example. He was caught picking pecans with several other teachers during the fourth period. Maybe he forgot his lunch!

Wichaka Field Day, held in early spring, is an occasion for crazy girls to think of silly, competitive races that are actually very amusing. Wheelbarrow races, tug-o-war contests, pass-the-orange, and obstacle courses are just a few of the games to make everyone feel uncoordinated. The proud team that accumulates the most points is awarded a prize of who knows what!

An interest in agriculture and a high buyer's price provide incentive for the FFA boys to produce the best product. Whether to a plant, chicken, sheep, cow, or pig, day-to-day care must be furnished. Winning a first-place ribbon means hard work, time and study. The boys compete by presenting their work to judges and buyers at an auction in the spring.

Would you believe that is Mr. Harold Costlow picking up pecans?

Palamar awarded a "King of the Court" trophy to the two players with the most votes. Janice Larson, basketball queen, was first runner-up in city competition.

A new addition to Lamar's publications was Viewpoint '69. Under the direction of Miss Jean Nipper and editor Marti McBirney, the new literary magazine was published with student contributions in five categories. Students submitted original works which were judged by both high school and college teachers. The winners' works were then published.

The Mirabeau Melodrama, presented in the cafeteria on March 23, astonished all who saw Noble Humdinger rescue Molly Blossom from the grasp of villain Bart Bastrop. Halftime entertainment was provided by twenty-one "Roaring Twenties" girls.

Summer Moods Lead to Adventure

Through the interest of several students, a Humanities ourse was offered for the spring semester. The non-credit ourse includes science, drama, art, philosophy, music, and rchitecture. Various guest speakers from different school epartments deliver lectures in class. The pupils are usually bsorbed in discussion, since there is no concern with grades tests.

With school almost over, students began to plan for sum- er fun. Graduating seniors sought jobs to pay for their llege education while other lucky scholars traveled in the nited States and abroad. Department stores, super markets, d summer camps presented excellent opportunities for em- oyment. The summer of 1969 will be full of excitement for Lamar students.

Dear Carol:

Considering the choice I had of the Lamar Senior High School Beauty candidates, it took quite some time before I could make a decision. Many of the girls are lovely young ladies. I made my decision on the basis of the wholesome look, along with the warmth of the eyes.

At this time, may I take the opportunity to thank you for honoring me in your yearbook. And, of course, thank you Marci Klep, Jeanie Gready, Susy Thompson, Barbara Frank, Anne Morris, Sylvia Darnell, Mary Ann Atwell, Katie Kaim and "Lamar's Most Beautiful Girl" -- Debbie Bennett, for being such attractive young ladies.

I wish all the best of luck to all of you and your classmates in the future.

Sincerely,

Paul Newman

National Honor Society Honors New Scholars

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to promote scholarship, leadership, and service among the students of Lamar. Eligibility requirements are a scholastic average of 3.2, a conduct record of no more than two G's, and the necessary number of service and honor points.

Membership consists of five percent of the high junior, low senior, and high senior classes.

Two sets of officers are elected, one for the fall and one for spring. The officers for the spring were elected at the fall meeting in October. New members for this year were announced on February 26, and a meeting was held on March 4 to elect officers for next year. The new members were formally inducted through impressive ceremonies at the P.T.A. meeting on April 22.

To provide service to Lamar the National Honor Society plans and carries out a project that will benefit the students and the school. At the March meeting the members elected a committee to decide the project for the year.

Arrowhead Members Attain High Average

Arrowhead recognizes outstanding seniors who show a willingness to serve Lamar honorably and faithfully and who have a scholastic average of 3.6 and an excellent conduct record. The members this year have an average of 3.8 because membership was limited to the top forty-eight eligible students.

Members were announced in November, and a meeting was held to elect officers. The banquet was held in December at Kaphan's restaurant, where the members were formally inducted. Members of Arrowhead sold school decals and book covers, as money-making projects.

Quill and Scroll Honors New Members

Members of the W. J. Moyes chapter of Quill and Scroll, the international society for high school journalists, are those students who have outstanding achievements in journalism.

Requirements for membership are to be at least a junior, to have done superior work in some field of journalistic effort, to have a high scholastic average, and to be recommended by the sponsor.

The new members this year were installed at the banquet held at The Stables in November.

Orenda Staff Meeting Introduces New Ideas

Club Editors Robert Pulley, Mary Anne Attwell, and Stephanie Kaldis look at the new pictures for the Club section

After the editorial staff's many long hours of cropping pictures, arranging layouts, and writing captions, write-ups, and headlines, the 1969 Orenda was ready for press. The business staff was also kept busy with the accounting and collecting of sales.

In the yearbook contests which the Orenda enters, it has always placed high in the ratings; the 1968 Orenda received an All-Texas Honor Rating in the Texas High School Press Association State Yearbook Contest.

A meeting was held in October to discuss new ideas and editing procedures. All editors were given notebooks containing layout suggestions and criticisms of past yearbooks. New ideas introduced this year were the use of the Mondrian style of layout, copy in the Life section, and the extensive theme development at the beginning of the yearbook.

In the latter part of May the Orendas are distributed to the student body.

Lancer Features Front-page Format

Scoops! Deadlines! Too much copy! Too little copy! Ads! Subscriptions! All these provided problems for the staff of the Lancer, the bi-monthly student newspaper. Publication requires two staffs, editorial and business, both under Miss Louise Fuller.

Business staffers keep records of ads and subscriptions, sell ads, boost support of advertisers, and distribute papers. The editor and managing editor supervise reporting, editing, and making-up at the printer.

Page editors write eye-catching headlines, count words in stories, and juggle write-ups, pictures, and ads to fit their page. The Lancer's backbone is its reporters, who always observe, interview, and listen in order to write newsworthy stories.

Lancer Editor Lois Hamilton laughs off Assistant Editor Jenny Fain's incredible new plans for a special twenty-four page edition.

Guest Speakers Stimulate French Honor Society

The purpose of the French Honor Society is to give tudents who are outstanding in French an opportunity o learn more about the French language and civilization. Throughout the year the club hosts monthly speeches n a variety of subjects, ranging from the latest French ashions to the high schools and universities of France. At the end of the year members present a program for arents and guests, after which the new members are ormally installed.

The club ends its activities for the year with a banquet t one of Houston's restaurants serving French cuisine.

Roman Festivities Re-Enacted at LHS Induction Banquet

Interest in a dynamic way of life, culture, achievements, nd language is the force that motivates members of the atin Honor Society.

For this reason, the banquet held in the fall to induct ew members was performed as closely as possible to ose of Roman times. Toga-clad new members served e meal to old members reclining on pillows amidst owers and music.

In the spring a picnic was held in tribute to Venus, oddess of love and beauty. Officers for the next year ere announced at the picnic.

Each year the club awards prizes to the students most tstanding in second-, third-, and fourth-year Latin.

The National Spanish Honor Society brings together a highly select group of students from the junior and senior classes. Their common interest and purpose is to study Spain and Spanish culture. The San Felipe Chapter was founded in 1963, and since then the most impressive activity has been a formal installation conducted entirely in Spanish.

Each year the club sponsors exhibits of pinatas, which are sent at Christmas to underprivileged children. In the spring the club meets informally for a Latin American dinner.

The two productions presented by the drama department, Our Town and "Charlie Brown's Christmas," highlighted the fall semester. Each play was excellently produced by Thespian and Kachina members. It was the responsibility of each Thespian to be an integral part of everything the drama department sponsored. Members worked hard to produce the University Interscholastic League One-Act Play, the Children's Theater, a senior project, and a Christmas play. Thespian members assisted Kachina with the one-act play in the spring. Thespians were also given the responsibility of organizing the Lamar Invitational Speech Tournament.

Kachina also participated in the Lamar Speech Tournament. A type of dramatic entertainment was presented at each meeting, every-other-Friday. Awards presented to the best Kachina boy and girl climaxed the year for the sophomore club.

German Club Is 'Very Interesting'

Der Deutsche Verein provides the German student with the ways and means of developing his skills in the German language outside of school, and it gives him a greater insight into German culture. It is affiliated with the Texas Association of German Students, which sponsors summer trips to Germany for those students who wish to work there, and this year members participated in the association's convention.

During the year members attended the Alley Theatre's production of Bertolt Brecht's play Galileo, and at the club's parties many people had the opportunity to view pictures and slides of members' trips to Germany. This year's first party was held at Patty Jenkins' house.

New Techniques Inspire Artisans

c Tanhock shares his knowledge of Portuguese art with Artisans.

Interesting speakers have greatly influenced members of the Artisans Association. Speakers such as Eric Tanhock from England intrigued the members with his Portuguese arts and crafts. A trip to the Harris County Center for the Retarded proved to be an opportunity to view classroom techniques in teaching children with mental handicaps.

While touring the Memorial Baptist School of Nursing, members were given a chance to see how girls, working toward a nursing degree, live.

Students Practice Teaching

Students who have a question concerning their grades might complain to the Future Teachers members. All members of Future Teachers of America act as assistant teachers. They grade papers, write assignments on boards, and average grades.

To acquire some aptitudes and traits of teaching, the members are offered interesting field trips. As a new member of the National Chapter, they have visited the Harris County Center of Retardation.

Open House

Breakfast served in the library was not an unusual thing this year. Before school the Library Assistants hosted breakfast for the teachers. The menu consisted of hot rolls, tea, or coffee. During Open House they invited students and parents to explore the library and its newest additions. With help from the library assistants, the staff displayed pinatas made by the Spanish classes. Library assistants do clerical work, shelve books, check books in and out, and aid the student body in finding reference materials.

Checking books in and out is a main duty for Phyllis Stokes.

Project Show Climaxes F.F.A. Year

With membership open to anyone interested in vocational agriculture, the Lamar chapter of Future Farmers of America actively participated in competitive contests on local, area, state, and national levels.

Projects raised by the "ag" students included steers, bulls, barrows, lambs, capons, turkeys, rabbits, and fryer chickens. These animals were displayed and sold at the annual Lamar F.F.A. Project Show on March 31. With sales totaling more than those of any other school, the show was the biggest and best in the city. Last year, Debbie Saccomanno's steer was named the Grand Champion of the show and was purchased by Blue Ribbon Packing Company for $1,280.50.

From a group of fifteen girls, a committee chose five semi-finalists for F.F.A. Sweetheart: Denise Foreman, Helen Holmes, Liz Lancaster, Janice Larson, and Tricia Pennington. Members then selected Tricia for her beauty, charm, and love of animals. She presided over all F.F.A. activities, including the several preliminary project shows at the pens on the Southwest Freeway, the judging contests at Texas A&M University, and the Parents-Son Banquet in May.

Patrick Restivo laboriously repairs his animal's stall.

Leaving for a contest at Brenham are Gary McNeely, Joe Castles, Jerry Caves, Gene Mattox, Debbie Saccomanno, Tricia Pennington, and Les Jordan.

Jerry Klawinsky feeds his barrow a diet of corn and grain.

Interact Repairs Parking Lot

Shoveling two tons of asphalt into holes in the school's west parking lot, members of Interact worked to repair and clean up the area surrounding the school. The activity was one of several projects of the club, which is sponsored by River Oaks Rotary Club and Mr. G. B. Fenley.

At the beginning of the year, correspondence started with an Interact Club in Singapore. In November, members held a clothing drive and each student raised money by donating the salary he earned working a day for a Rotary Club member. Interact held Career Day in February, when each Lamar student attended a seminar on a subject which interested him.

Projects Highlight Key Club's Year

A membership drive open to all boys with high scholastic standing was the first order of business for Key Club this year. The young men, under the guidance of Mr. Dennis Phillips and Western Houston Kiwanis Club, formed a board of directors modeled after that of the Kiwanis Club and decided on projects the club would carry out.

Every member sold light bulbs and Kiwanis grapefruit, helped the sponsors with a pancake supper, and participated in the Cystic Fibrosis Drive. Members provided transportation for Big Red to and from each game. At Thanksgiving, the Key Club presented three families with food baskets. Mr. Phillips' portrayal of Santa Claus highlighted the Christmas party given at Sherman Elementary School. The Key Club and Interact co-sponsored the Worthing pep rally.

D.E. Remodels School Store

A combination of yellow paint and artistic abilities helped D.E. students remodel their school store in September. They painted the walls and woodwork and designed a new floor plan for the room. The store carried a larger stock of books and sold DECA pecan rolls and fruit cakes at Christmas, and Lamar notebooks and bookcovers in January.

Starting in August, students interested in the program interviewed prospective employers. When school started, they had arranged their schedules so that they attended school until 12:30, when they left to go to work.

Social activities included installation of officers, a semi-formal party with Lee and Westbury, and other DECA club projects. In November, Ken Gashette won the sales demonstration competition, based on ability to sell to the individual. He then represented Lamar in further competition, which included area, state, and national conferences.

Spirit Club Yells and Hollers

Football season was house-wrapping time for Spirit Club members. The nights before games they gathered red and blue balloons, streamers, and posters to decorate the players' doors. They also publicized the players by giving them glitter numbers.

Members of the club attend all football games and other athletic events on a rotating basis. At pep rallies they served as a strong yelling group to build up enthusiasm. At a poster party they planned and made decorations for the Williams pep rally and game.

Starting their first full year of activity dressed in red and blue jumpers with navy blue shorts underneath, the Spirit Club members were an important part in the spectator action and continued to encourage the student body's enthusiasm.

Arrowettes Add New Spirit

Garbed in snappy new costumes of white satin and red fringe, Indian feathers and boots, Lamar's drill team made its debut on the football field in the fall.

Last May a coke party was given for prospective members. In August an installation dinner honored the newly elected officers and members, who received carnations and roses.

During football season, the Arrowettes added a new voice to the Lamar stands and at half-time performed lively precision drills. The Arrowettes have given their support not only to all Lamar's athletic events, but also to the community by selling poppies and making parade appearances. In March they ushered at the Texas State Teachers' Association convention. Their money-making project, selling magazines, was highly successful. A formal dance climaxed an exciting first year.

Pride and Skill

Addition of new equipment helped the band's perform-grams at school, the new instruments aided development of the group.

In the fall, the entire group participated in the march-ng contest at Katy, where it received a District IV rating, nd also went to concert and sight-reading contests in the pring. Individuals also attended spring competitions to ry for places in ensemble and solo divisions, and many tudents worked for all-district, all-regional, and all-state ands.

NDCC Strives for Honor Star

Larger enrollment and better morale helped the members of the National Defense Cadet Corps work toward regaining their Honor Star. Having the rifle team place fifth in the city and the drill team rank twelfth, after not competing for three years, also aided the cadets in seeking the honor.

Members raised and lowered the flags at school every day and escorted spectators at all Lamar games. Their activities included presenting a special assembly which featured Clarence Green and the Rhythmaires in October, participating in Veteran's Day parade, sponsoring a turkey shoot at Thanksgiving, going on several bivouacs during the year, and having a brigade review and awards ceremony in May. City inspections and reviews occupied the cadets' time in the spring.

Choralettes Sing Aloha!

The highlight of the year for the Choralettes was the incredible trip to Hawaii in late April. While in Honolulu, the girls sang at Pearl Harbor Naval Base, Fort DeRussy, and the University of Hawaii; and they participated in the annual Lei Day festivities. The Choralettes sang for at least two shows a month, straight through the year. In the fall, the girls performed at an Easter Seal dinner, a luncheon for the blind, and a Rotary Club luncheon. The group contributed to the United Fund drive.

Their Sadie Hawkins Dance was a tremendous success with the theme "Sadie Goes to the Circus." Choralettes made and sold corsages and favors and held the election of Mr. and Miss Sadie Hawkins, Tom Ball and Bonnie Keeton. The Hawaii trip was also financed by the annual Jones Hall concert.

As goodwill ambassadors and official representatives of the State of Texas, the Mixed Chorus toured our nation's capital during the Christmas season. Here the group sang at the Capitol, the White House lawn, Pageant of Peace, the Washington Cathedral, and St. John's Broadcreek (1692). In addition to visiting many government buildings, national monuments, and museums, the group exchanged greetings between Houston's leaders and those of Alexandria, Virginia, where the Chorus members are honorary citizens, went ice skating and were entertained at a trim-a-tree party at Tulip-Hill-on-the-Potomac.

Mirabeau Proclaims "Merry Mistletoe"

Mirabeau mistletoe sales help bring Christmas to Lamar. Other Mirabeau seasonal activities elevating school spirit included sophomore orientation in September, the Melodrama in March, and sponsorship of the spring Redskin Relays. Tiger pep rally posters for the Sam Houston game were quite a sensation. Mirabeau contributed to the United Fund and presented a $100 scholarship to an outstanding girl graduate in the spring.

Year-round cookie sales supported donation of baskets to families at Thanksgiving and to children from Dow Elementary school at Easter. Fall and spring luncheons, coke and poster parties rounded out the year.

"Keep the hearts coming, Keep the hearts coming, on this Valentine's Day" was a tune in the Niwauna repertoire of Singing Valentines, sent from one student to another. The Singing Valentines swung into full momentum February 14 as members played Cupid and decorated halls with red hearts. "Mums for sale" heralded the advent of Niwauna's enterprising mum sales during football season. Teacher mums were sold for the Waltrip game, and Hero Mums were popular at the Williams game.

At Thanksgiving, baskets of food were contributed to a family. Dow Elementary School children were entertained at a Christmas party. Niwauna sponsored spring baseball games. Coke parties, poster parties, and the annual semester dinners proved pleasant diversion for Niwauna members.

King of the Court elections were held this winter by industrious Palamar girls. This was their main activity, but charity was also important. Palamar gave Thanksgiving baskets to several families who live on Allen Parkway. Christmas afforded a chance to host a party for young children at Crockett Elementary School. Generous donations were made to the United Fund and to the Lamar track team. Spring brought an Easter party given for retarded children.

A major fund-raising project for Palamar was the selling of slogan slips before every game. Palamar also introduced Sticky-Toppers, small football-shaped stickers with Lamar imprinted in blue. Palamar's social life was most active this year, consisting of installation parties, a Mother-Daughter tea, and banquets to close the fall and spring semesters.

Eastergrams Keep Tawasi Hopping

Tawasi's successful Eastergram sale was only one indication of the club's whirlwind year. Members began by providing Orientation maps for incoming sophomores. Tawasi girls slaved many hours over the imaginative banners on stage at each pep rally. Friends were made when Tawasi offered a basket of food for a family at Thanksgiving and completely supplied another family with many essentials at Christmas. Donations to the United Fund, Christmas Seals, and Easter Seals completed the year's goodwill projects. In the spring, Tawasi members presented the Tawasi Cup to an outstanding junior boy. A fall and spring banquet, scattered small parties, and a surprise year-ending party rounded out Tawasi's fun.

Wichaka's second annual Field Day was held in early spring, setting half the school in a frenzy. Jelly beans were sold and a king and queen were elected to reign over the festivities. Wickakorn, kola, kookies, and kones were sold to exhausted participants and spectators alike. In the fall, Wichaka peddled helium-filled balloons, called Spirit Blimps, in order to boost spirits at the football games.

Members participated in such community service projects as donations to the United Fund and the giving of parties for elementary school children, both at Christmas and Easter. As graduation grew nearer, Wichaka presented the David Fenwick Memorial Cup to the most representative senior boy. Wichaka girls were entertained at coke parties for newly-drawn members and also at fall and spring dinners.

Santa Endorses Pow Wow

Our homecoming game proved to be Pow Wow members' time to show their spirit. The boys meticulously strung hundreds of streamers and balloons to make the Homecoming pep rally a thrilling event.

At Thanksgiving, Pow Wow presented a basket of food to an underprivileged family and then helped Niwauna with a Christmas party for Kindergartners at Dow Elementary School. Pow Wow's members elected Beth Edens sweetheart. A generous contribution was given to the United Fund to further express their good will. Spring brought presentation of the K. Lamar Camp Award to a senior boy who best displayed excellence in character, scholarship, and athletics.

Lamar's mighty Redskins got off to a strong start by defeating the Milby Buffs 18-0. Tom Ball ran for two touchdowns and passed for the third. In a real thriller, the Redskins had to stave off a last-ditch effort by the Beaumont Buffaloes to win 21-20. Bill Dallas returned the second half kick-off eighty-four yards for six points. The Aldine Mustangs racked up the first loss for the Redskins by a score of 29-0. Lamar completed five of nine passes in the last seven minutes but still could not score. The Redskins came back and scalped the Madison Marlins in a 33-0 rout. Ken Vaughn and Bill Chilivetis led the team to two touchdowns the first two times they had the ball. Chris Word, Rodney Ledet, Costa Kaldis and David Jackson led the defense in the shutout. The state-ranked Sam-Houston Tigers beat Lamar 49-12. Doug Pung gave a brief glimmer of hope when he romped seventy-five yards after his pass interception for a touchdown. The Worthing Colts became the fourth team to be outscored by Lamar, 14-0. Bill Chilivetis ran for two touchdowns of seventy-one and five yards. Good defense by Steve Mohnke, Rodney Ledet, Costa Kaldis, Mark Dean, and Bill Jackson held the Colts to a negative seven yards. Lamar opened district play by losing to the Waltrip Rams 29-20. Lamar led at halftime 14-0 because of a fine attack by Chilivetis and Ball. Craig Pennington kicked both the extra points. The Rams capitalized on a fumble and three interceptions to come from behind and win. In the Homecoming Game against Lamar's rival, Lee blanked the 'Skins by 33-0. Against the William Wolverines, Lamar was outscored 22-6 on a wet and muddy field. Lamar ended its season with a victorious clash 7-0 against the San Jacinto Bears. The final Redskin tally was five wins, five losses.

Tough Little Red Poses Threat

This year the Junior Varsity proved to be strong opposi-n, even though they had a losing season. The Red-ns had impressive victories over Aldine and Madison d held tough Bellaire to a tie. Sam Callis and Chris orberg both made long runs for much-needed yardage. eorge Redumis and Brad Bracewell shared the quarter-cking duties. The Redskin Junior Varsity squad gained perience and showed determination which will help ild future Varsity. Coach Gaylord Fenley and Coach inston Boeker's team has every right to be proud of the fort and work they put into this season. The staff veloped character as well as a fine team.

Lamar's 1968-69 basketball team posted an impress season of 22 wins and 11 losses. This is the best reco for Lamar in over 10 years. The squad worked diligen for six weeks at night before the season even start In non-district play, the mighty Redskins racked up wins out of 23 games. Led by co-captains Steve Wo and Charles Downing, Lamar finished second in t Houston Baptist College and fourth in the Corpus Chri Tournaments.

Playing in a strong district against tough oppositio Lamar won six out of ten games. The 'Skins started w a victory over the Williams Wolverines, 63-58. Lam then ran into the San Jacinto Bears, who defeated the 57-81. Lamar was ready for their big rivals, the Robert Lee Generals, but were beaten back 66-61. The highlig of the district season came when the mighty Redski crushed a surprised Waltrip Rams' squad 49-47. The v tory was made possible by 25 points from the free-thro line. A win over Sharpstown (86-53) ended the fi round of district. The Redskins began their second rou by defeating Williams again by a score of 69-63. S Jacinto also collapsed from the Redskin attack 66-6 Once again, the Lee Generals slipped by 53-51. Lam then faced Waltrip and could not quite defend agai the Rams' attack. The score was 59-51. In the final gam of the season, Lamar trounced the Sharpstown Apoll by a score of 90-57. Coach Duke Lane spent much tim and effort working with the team. The Redskin squ profited from the hard work exhibited by all membe of the team.

Little Red Proves to Be Strong Opposition

The Sophomore Basketball Team—led by Bob Downing, Ron Peters, Danny Hoffman, Doug Fain, and David Evans, and coached by Gaylord Fenley and Sanford Carr—compiled a fine record of 17 wins to 3 losses. The sophs took first-place honors in the Hitchcock Tournament and second place in the Furr Tournament. The team did not compete for any district title.

The Junior Varsity, running into strong opposition, posted a 13-16 record. Rick Herrington, James Taylor, Bill Sullivan, Steve Sanders, Rex Baker, and Rick Frisk led the JV attack. Necessary skills were learned and used repeatedly in the close games. The squad developed agility and speed to compensate for the lack of height. Members played well together and profited from the season. Coaches Sandy Carr and Gaylord Fenley helped build a fine, tough team that will supply future Lamar basketball teams with an abundance of talent.

Dedication Proves Key to Strong Season

Coach Jim Hart can look forward to another fine year for track. Lamar is equipped with many hustling and determined young men. On February 6, the track squad had a practice meet against Kashmere and Lee. February 13 Lamar participated in another meet with Sam Houston and Worthing. Again this year Lamar hosts the Redskin Relays, a major event for all Redskin runners, jumpers, vaulters, shot-putters, discus throwers and sprinters. The trackmen have prepared for this season by working hard every day at their specialty. Because of the tracksters' skills and their excellent coach, Lamar hopes for another fine season.

Diamondmen Expect Another Perfect Season

With most of last year's City Baseball Championship Team returning this year, Coach Dale DeHart can be very excited. With the return of Steve Mohnke, Mike Cripe, Harry Craig, Tom Ball, Bill Talley, Bill Kinzer, Teddy Gilman, Doug Pung, Bob Redding, Grier Patton and Jack Feldt, Lamar should have another excellent team. Faced with a tough schedule, Lamar will constantly be tested on the field. The squad works every day at improving speed, agility, eye-to-hand coordination, and powerful swings. These abilities will help eliminate field errors. The team won both ends of a double-header game at St. Pius. With an abundance of pitchers and hitting power, Lamar's Baseball Team should go very far this year.

Netmen Look Forward to District Title

Because of returning netters such as Jim Bayless, Tay- r Cooksey, Stanley Taylor, Ralph Fite and Bill Wootters, d newcomers Don Babel and Richard Cooksey, Coach ad Gentry has a storehouse of fine players. Lamar's top ayer, Jim Bayless, is ranked fourth in state and fortieth the nation in his age bracket.

Members of the teams practice every day during sixth riod in order to be ready for the many tournaments. ne Lamar squad was edged out by Memorial in the Fall urnament. Redskin Bowlers Zero-in for a Strike

A big turn-out of promising bowlers indicates the popularity of bowling at Lamar and the excitement which surrounds the game. Lamar's team practices every Tuesday night during the spring at the Bellaire Recreational Palace, and Coach Louis Dee supervises and instructs these bowlers in all stages of the game. Highest scoring male bowlers are Tony Hubly, Bill Wallace, Kelly DeHay, Steve Toy, Joe Dornak and Frank Dailing. The bowling squad is divided into two main groups for competition in a league consisting of eighteen teams. The squad is ready for the competition offered by this league because of their good coaching.

Golfers Aim for Hole-in-One

Coach Don Longcope has good reason to anticipate the upcoming season with the powerful swings and putting power of Doug Dillon, Robert Hurst, Bobby Singleton, and John Mortimer. The golf squad practices Monday through Friday at sixth period and on the weekend for recreation. Their aim is to improve themselves and lower their number of strokes. Due to such practice, the golf squad has an excellent chance to go far this year.

Best Cherokee Teams Advance to Top

Upon entering Lamar, every girl becomes a member of the Cherokee Club. The Club offers a sport for every girl. Each year a select number of girls are elected to become heads of certain sports such as tennis, volleyball, bowling, archery, badminton, basketball, swimming, track, and softball. Teams are assembled and tournaments are played to determine a winner. At the end of the school year, Cherokee roses are awarded to girls who participated on five teams and a Cherokee Cup is given to the most outstanding Cherokee girl.

Volleyballers Set up a Good Year

The balls were flying fast and furiously when the Lamar volleyball team became a contender for the district championship. Though edged out, the girls got revenge by defeating Lee. Also in a non-district game Lamar triumphed over Reagan, the eventual city champ. The successful season can be attributed to the hard hours of practice under the direction of Miss Elise Hawkins. At the banquet which concluded the volleyball season of 1968, letters were awarded to deserving players.

Academics

Mr. Harold K. Costlow constantly has the responsibility of attending to the demanding duties which fill his busy, and many times hectic, schedule. He is in charge of the school's entire program. His activities include planning, revising, and updating the curriculum; overseeing the operation and maintenance of the school plant; setting school policy in various areas; and also acting as a public relations man. He finds time, however, to play an active role in the Rotary Club and to take an interest in many community affairs.

Staff and Library Aid Over 2,000

Working with a computer for the first time this year, the counselors planned and coordinated student schedules. The counselors advised over two thousand students concerning their courses, possible careers, college preparation and admission, and job opportunities. Assistant Principal Lon Wheeler and Dean Margaret Chaplin took expert charge of discipline, textbooks, drillbooks, and limitless other activities.

Lamar's library, the largest high school library in the city, was one of three involved in the experimental use of the microfilm reader this year. Keeping pace with the increased use of audio-visual equipment, the library purchased many additional poetry, drama, and music recordings; tapes; and film strips.

English Teachers Bring Literature to Life in Classes

An understanding of good literature and the ability o communicate effectively continue to be the ultimate goals of all Lamar's English instructors. Teachers increasngly used television, films, transparencies, and recordings o aid in furthering this goal this year. It was not unusual for an English teacher's assignment to include instructions o watch a movie version of a classic on television. An ducational television series on mythology and one on American literature were used on a weekly basis in many lasses. New vocabulary workbooks and new comprehenion workbooks were introduced at all levels.

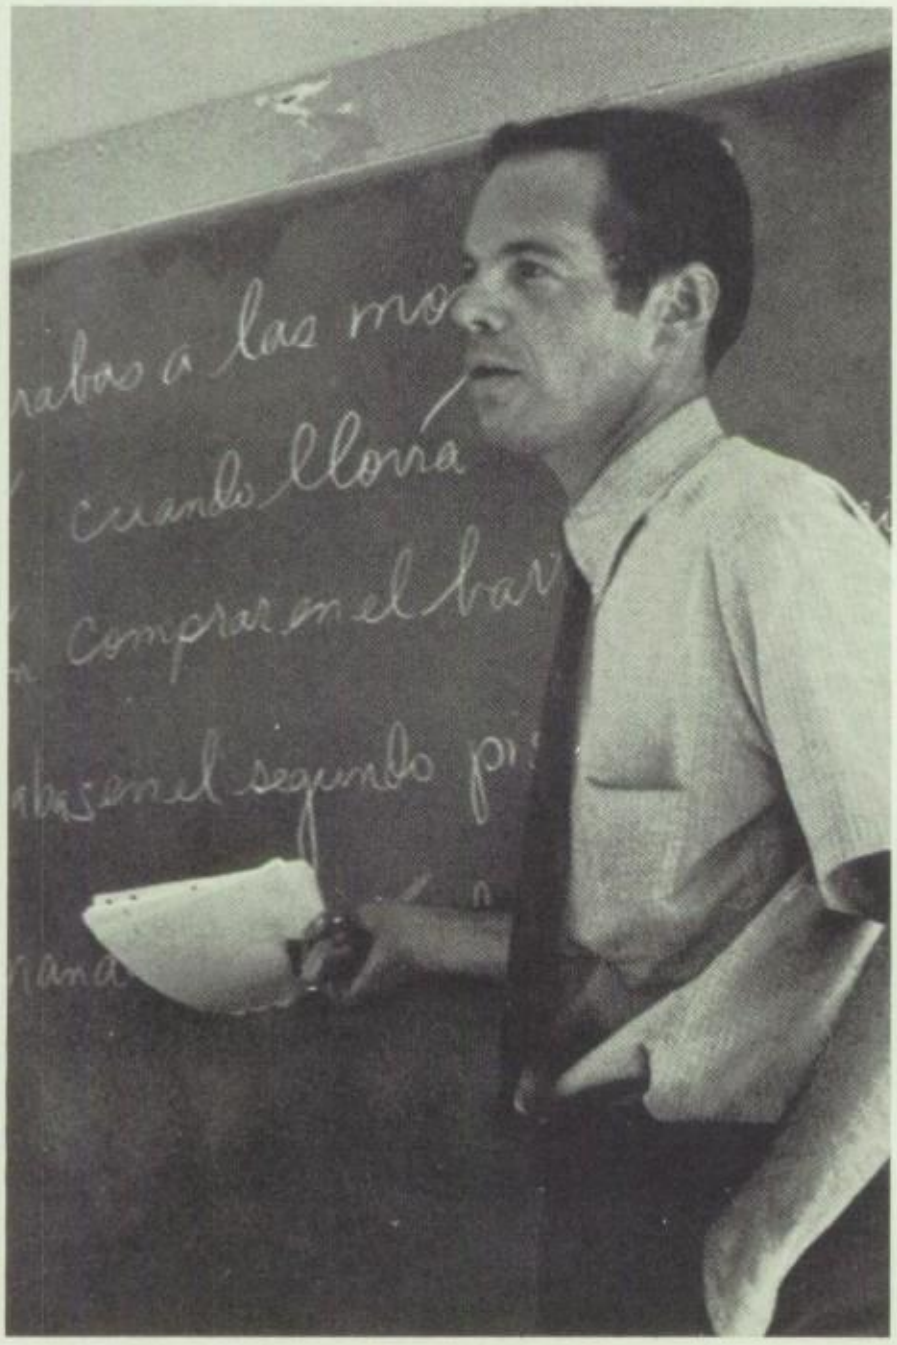
Cultural Involvement Stimulates Language Study



Mr. John Reed/Spanish

Involvement in depth in the culture, history, and current affairs, as well as the language, marks the approach of the foreign language department to its task of stimulating student interest in acquiring foreign language skill. This department supplements classroom instruction with extensive use of tapes and films.

The smallest foreign language group is the Russian, offered at two levels of instruction. Lamar is one of three high schools in Houston offering Russian. In addition, Lamar is one of the few high schools which easily maintains a four-year Latin program.

The French, German, Latin, and Spanish departments have active clubs or honor societies which sponsor various speakers and programs of interest to their students and which reward outstanding achievement in their fields.

Math Teachers Add Dimension to Study

Audio-visual aids were used increasingly in the math department, as in many other departments. Major works classes in geometry and algebra offered challenging work to the better-than-average student in mathematics. A college-level course in calculus, offered to seniors who had completed major works algebra and geometry, continued to be a success, as were other advanced classes in elementary analysis and analytical geometry. Three dimensional geometric figures were used as aids for students in the study of space geometry. Several math students took qualifying tests for a special math summer school program at various colleges and universities across the nation.

The girls participated in volleyball, arch-, modern dance, softball, tennis, basketball, and track. ys were active in football, softball, basketball, volleyball, l weight lifting programs. Lamar participated signifi-tly in various types of athletic competition with other ools and continued its strong intramural program. A v addition to the girls' department was the drill team, Arrowettes, who performed at football games. Chero-, Lamar's highly successful girls' intramural sports asso-ion, continued as one of the largest and most active ool groups.

A major innovation in the science department this year was the introduction of a new course, oceanography. This survey course contains a little of geology, physics, meteorology, chemistry, and math. An aquarium was maintained by the students and was stocked with specimens obtained on their field trips. Oceanography joined Lamar's other science classes in biology, chemistry, physics, physical science, and physiology. An advanced chemistry course and major works biology, chemistry, and physics classes offered an opportunity for the science-oriented student to pursue his interests.

Social Science Classe Keep Tabs on Election

This election year American history and civics class studied the elections on a state and national level. T government classes were particularly comprehensive, usi panels, stump speaking, debates, and mock classroo elections in practice for the student's future role in democratic society. The whole department participated the city-wide program "Youth and the Law," sponsor by the district attorney's office. Several government st dents took part in a filmed seminar on various phases city government, sponsored by the local bar associati and a local television station.

Fine Arts Teachers Awaken Students' Cultural Awareness

Lamar's fine arts department had a busy year. The Mixed Chorus' production of Oliver and the drama department's production of Thornton Wilder's Our Town were artistic and financial successes. The Choralettes presented several shows to audiences in Houston and surrounding areas and took a trip to Hawaii. The Mixed Chorus also traveled, performing at the Pageant for Peace in Washington, D.C. All art work in the student directory was handled by the art department, and the speech and debate groups performed admirably, bringing home numerous trophies from tournaments. The band, under new direction, entertained fans with excellent new half-time routines at football games and offered new sounds in concert, marching, and assembly programs.

Varied Courses Offered in Practical Arts

Realizing that courses in the practical arts can be an important factor in a well-rounded education, Lamar offers a wide choice in this field for almost every interest —home economics, business education, typing, bookkeeping, metal shop, industrial arts, vocational agriculture, and Distributive Education.

This year's D.E. members expanded book sales in the school store, aiding teachers and students in securing required and recreational reading material. In the business department the bookkeeping course was expanded to a full year. Home economics classes were hosts at a Christmas Open House in Lamar's new dining-entertainment area. Livestock projects of the vocational agriculture students were exhibited on Western Day at a spring FFA Project Show.

We Are Juniors,

followers of the leaders,
leaders of the followers.
Our grades are more significant;
our challenges are increasing;
our carefree days are vanishing.
With mixed emotions, we move toward senior leadership.

Orenda Moves Toward New Horizons

Orenda 1969 is an attempt to use words and pictures to capture the significance of our years of education from orientation to graduation. To report the story in terms of people, events, and moods, we have adopted a new format. The opening section and the Life-Look layouts are a part of this approach to telling the year "like it is."

Changing the style of the yearbook has involved revamping procedures. With the cooperation and help of our efficient and talented sponsor, Mrs. Iris Loep, a job manual for each member of the staff was prepared and a special training session was held.

The staff has responded to the challenge with great ideas, unparalleled devotion, and midnight labor. I can't thank Jim Giles enough for finishing his work before deadlines, Robert Pulley for figuring out how to do Mondrian layouts in the Club Section, Mary Anne Attwell for her excellent copy, Chris Lappala for his injection of life and the true learning experience into the Faculty Section, Don Babel for his continuing effort to improve Club layouts, Mike Wheeler for his basic creative work in getting more pictures in the Junior Section, Brenda Meglasson for her expressive headlines, Irene Beasley for her careful Life revisions, Stephanie Kaldis for expert identification and steady work, Beth Bybee for dependability and enthusiasm in two jobs—typing and assisting in the Senior Section—Adele Taylor for vivacity in the face of unbelievable obstacles, Robbie Hervey for superior organization and solution to crisis situations, and photographers Chris Ransom, Neile Wolfe, Bill Whitworth, and Walter Lenoir for devotion in achieving photographs with life and action. There is not enough space in the 304 pages of the book adequately to thank each member of the staff and Mrs. Loep—of alliterative headline fame—for the truly exceptional intelligence and effort applied to our task. Thank you, too, Mrs. Mary Hollier, Mrs. Trula Meglasson, and Mrs. Bertie Wolfe, who should be honorary members of the staff for their encouragement.

Mrs. Glenn Chase and the business staff handled the financial aspects with such efficiency that money matters only vaguely touched the editorial staff. To Mrs. Chase, Brad Duff, Sally Smith, Meg Greene, Becky Alvis, Takashi Takeuchi, and Guy Burkhart, I am deeply grateful.

For the professional photographic work, I thank Mr. Fred Trube, Mr. Roy Arnold, Henriksen, Kaye Marvin's and Foleys. Mr. D-Eon Priest and the Taylor Publishing Company have made my work easier, and for this I am grateful. May Orenda 1969 ever provide a meaningful glimpse of our year and our horizons
